Revolution Club Has Annual Dinner Meet

Hear Talk By Mrs. Rosa; Club Makes Plans For Christmas At Meeting

The Revolution Community club had its first meeting of the new year following a covered-dish supper last Friday night in the welfare dining room. Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, of the department of Home Economics at Woman's college, who spoke on "Ten Thousand Guinea Pigs."

The supper followed the autumn motif with an arrangement of harvest vegetables, fruits and leaves in the center of the table.

Mrs. Rosa stressed good eating habits of plain nutritious foods to build strong, healthy children with sound bones and teeth. She warned the members to be on guard lest they put too much store in magazine and radio advertisements of foods. "Listen and read with a thinking mind," she commended. At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Rosa was presented with an arrangement of roses which had been given to decorate the club room, by Mesdames Marvin Willis and Luther Jackson.

Mrs. B. A. Sisk, president, was in the chair during the business session. The club voted to sponsor a brunswick stew, to be held the last week in November, the proceeds from which will go into the club treasury. Miss Fanny Paul Ivey, Mesdames Carl Wyrick and Lowell T. Steele are on the Ways and Means committee and request that club members and friends make donations of foods for the stew and take orders so that they will know how much to make.

The club decided to have the annual Christmas Pollyanna party at the December meeting. Each person will bring a gift, and in turn will receive one. There will be a Christmas program arranged by a committee, to be named later.

Mesdames Floyd Strickland and Mack Fulk were hostesses and in charge of arrangements.

Those present were: Mesdames B. A. Sisk, W. A. Williamson, W. M. Leach, W. F. Johnson, N. B. Martin, W. J. Darby, J. N. Hinshaw, L. G. Newton, Kermit Ritter, Floyd Strickland, Ernest Cockman, Carl Wyrick, Mack Fulk, Lowell T. Steele, Miss Sallie Burgess; visitors were Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, Misses Mozelle Keller, Frances Scott and Sarah Sherrill, all of Woman's College; Miss Hazel Virginia Steele and Eleanor Newton.

Australian Praises Mill Village Plan

Last Sunday's Charlotte Observer ran a brief article in its column on Textiles which proves of interest.

The article stated that Tom Butterworth, of Sidney, Australia, textile manufacturer, who is touring the United States studying American methows of production in textiles with the view of adopting the best methods for increasing production in Australia now and during the post war era, had praised the southern mill village plan.

The Australian declared: "The southern villages around the textile mills are remarkable in that they hold labor and contribute towards making labor contented," he said, adding that "contented labor means efficiency and maximum production."

Butterworth is general manager of Davis, Coop and company of Sydney, textile manufacturers who produce 55 per cent of Australia's canvas goods and 75 per cent of the country's tire cord products.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

BY JAMES PRESTON

Congressmen who oppose compulsory military training say sponsors of the plan bid for farm support by proposing to have a large proportion of the trainees instructed in agriculture. The idea is that farmers who have opposed military training might give approval if assured it would not deplete the farm labor supply . . .

Resignations from the War Production Board have reduced the agency's personnel from more than 22,000 to below 12,000. Most persons resigning feel the job at WPB is finished, and are anxious to return to their own businesses and peacetime employment. Howard Coonley, director of WPB's Conservation Division, director of the National Association of Manufacturers, and former president of NAM, has recommended his division be abolished . . .

Three long strides have been taken to speed reconversion after V-E day:

(1) Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion clarified the step-by-step procedure to be followed in terminating contracts.

(2) Action was taken to simplify dealings of war plant contractors with the various service agencies in termination of contracts.

(3) War Department planned to issue new regulations covering pretermination of contracts. Navy is expected to act shortly along similar lines.

Don't Say "No" To Vets

American industrial supervisors are advised by Dr. Howard E. Fritz, of Akron, O., to use the word "no" cautiously in postwar dealings with returned servicemen, or they may make the mistake "that the ardent father did who refused his son use of the family jalopy because of his immaturity—only to have the lad come home a year later at the wheel of a $250,000 bomber."

CAPTAIN PATRICIA INEZ WARD

Captain Patricia Inez Ward Is Spending Leave At Home

Is Commanding Officer At Kelly Field Hospital

At home for the first time since she donned her two silver bars, Captain Patricia Inez Ward, of the United States Army Nurse Corps, is winding up a two-weeks leave tomorrow. Capt. Ward received her promotion last summer at Kelly Field, near San Antonio, Texas, where she is commanding officer of a corps of 30 nurses in a 500-bed hospital. She is the highest ranking nurse stationed there.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Ward, of 2305 Vine street, Revolution, Capt. Ward was a nurse in civilian life having had her training at Rex hospital, Raleigh. Upon enlistment in the army, she was sent to Camp Shelby, Miss., where she received her basic training; later she was assigned to Kelly Field where she has been since that time.

Attendance Report

First Shift Nappers at Revolution kept attendance honors away from the Dyers by four tenths of a point. First Shift Dyeing at Proximity lost to the smaller Shipping Room group by only three points; White Oak Second Shift Dyeing led First Shift Dyeing by a tenth of a point, and Print Works Laboratory beat out Napping by less than a tenth of a point. While a lot of other departments are strung out with as low as 73.9 per cent attendance for the month, (Proximity Spinning) the top-notchers are all pushing for the first places. White Oak and Proximity had five departments each with better than 90 per cent attendance for the month. Revolution had nine while Print Works—well below their best record—had seven.

PICK-UPS from Ceasar Cone School

Note: These articles are written by the pupils themselves.

A bond rally was held Friday at Ceasar Cone school to arouse the interest of those who are not buying war bonds and stamps and also those who have already started.

Miss Etta Schiffman, chairman of the War committee at Ceasar Cone, was in charge.

Mrs. Eugene Hood, assisted by Mrs. Maude Klingman at the piano, led in "America the Beautiful", and "Battle Hymn of the Republic".

Next came "colors". The American flag and the flag of North Carolina were brought in by Girl Scouts in uniform. While the pupils were still standing they saluted the flag and sang "Oh Beautiful Banner". Clarence Thompson said the Boy Scout oath and Elaine Leonard repeated the Girl Scout promise. There was a short talk by Miss Schiffman. Everyone joined Mrs. Hood in singing "America". Mrs. Lineberry made an interesting talk. Jaynelle Martin explained how they were increasing the sale of stamps in Mrs. Lineberry's room. There was a boxing match between "Adolph Axis" who was Curtis Cockman and "Jo Ally" who was Jo Phillip. Mr. L. H. Bell was refree. It was to show what would happen if we stopped buying war stamps and thought the war was over. After the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung, each grade went to it's room in order.

Those who took part were: Martha Haynes, Billie Mae Bell, Elizabeth Rhodes, Helen Whitfield, Jerry Moore, Margaret Haynes, Clarence Thompson, Elaine Leonard, Jo Phillips, Curtis Cockman, Mr. Bell, Jaynelle Martin, Mrs. Lineberry, Mrs. Klingman and Mrs. Hood.

PROXIMITY PROX. PRINT WORKS — CONE FABRICS — WHITE OAK REVOLUTION

Greensboro, North Carolina, Friday, November 10, 1944

What We Are Committed To

Now that the fireworks of a somewhat bitter election campaign are over and the will of the people has been established, it is very important that we direct all of our energies, activities and resources to the important jobs ahead. The job of winning the war as rapidly as possible is the most important thing that we face. To that end, both past candidates were definitely pledged. It is, therefore, incumbent upon the supporters of both candidates to give their all to that end.

After all, there was very little difference in the thoughts and ideas of the two candidates as they expressed themselves to the American people. Therefore, the supporters of Dewey should feel that the President, because of his campaign expressions, is obligated to carry out most of the ideas, thoughts and plans that Mr. Dewey advocated. Both Mr. Dewey and the President of the United States have definitely committed themselves to the preservation of free enterprise and property rights in the United States. Any deviation from that policy by the President would be a betrayal, and we do not anticipate that he will in any way do other than help to preserve these wonderful American principles. Hence, communists, socialists and others who would destroy them should have nothing to rejoice over, and the same would certainly be true if Mr. Dewey had been elected.

Since both candidates placed such emphasis upon the two above mentioned American principles, they leave little doubt but that they considered the preservation of those principles as being uppermost in the minds of the great majority of American people, and in casting their ballots it is known to be a fact that if either of the two candidates had even implied that they favored this country departing from free enterprise, there would have been a sufficient number of his supporters to repudiate him that he could not have received a sizable vote. In fact, we did have a candidate running on a Socialist ticket, and no one questions the fact that as far as capability is concerned, Norman Thomas can stand up with the most capable citizens of the nation.

On the other hand, this past election does not indicate that any group of supporters should feel that they can control this nation. The South is antagonistic towards the ideas and aims of some groups in other sections which aggressively supported the President, and yet the South went all-out in its support of President Roosevelt, even after southern delegations at the Democratic Convention realized that they were not being given due consideration

As we size the situation up, this country is committed, first, to winning this war as rapidly as possible; second, to the establishment of facilities to make future wars impossible; third, to the preservation of the cardinal principles of America, namely, freedom of opportunity, free enterprise and property rights; fourth, the providing of jobs for those who want to work; fifth, a fair deal to all groups, regardless of occupation, race, color, or creed.

Who have left this world one by one.
Ah! I think of them so often
And I miss them when they're gone.
I value each sacred memory;
In my life each had a place.
But there is one I esteem very highly,
One full of God's wonderful grace.
How her face would light up with pleasure
As she viewed our gardens and flowers!
It made her even more beautiful
For us to beautify this world of ours.
Now she has gone from this earth.
With its toil and strife.
And I think of her standing there,
In God's beautiful gardens,
And I think, "What a beautiful life."

(Mrs. Craven has written this tribute to the late Miss Minnie Fields who died September 1, 1944. Miss Fields was for many years social worker for Proximity Manufacturing company at White Oak.)

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Mother to 21 year old son: Son, you have arrived at the time of life when you must know one of it's facts. Your father and I have talked it over and have decided that you are old enough to know. (Breaking down into a sob). But I just can't tell you; you'll just have to go to your father."

Father to the same 21 year old son: Er-r-r, my boy. This is a very delicate subject, most delicate. I am not sure you are prepared for it. Anyway . . . Oh, I can't tell you, you'll just have to go to your grandmother."

Grandmother to 21 year old grandson: This pains me to have to break such a delicate subject to a young man, but my dear, you cannot go through life without knowing—There is no Santa Clause."

MINNEOLA NEWS

The Senior Young Peoples class of the Methodist church with the teacher, Mrs. L. A. Wharton held the regular business and social meeting this week at the home of Misses Hazel and Minneola May on Whitsett street. Plans were made to send stationery to the boys in camp and air mail stamps to those overseas. Plans were also made for the Christmas party. Names were drawn for the exchange of gifts. Following the meeting all enjoyed a hamburger supper with doughnuts and coffee.

Miss Christine Stewart and Mrs. Cleo Patton honored Miss Polly Moore bride-elect of Gordon Stewart, with a linen shower at their home Saturday evening. Several contest were given with prizes, consisting of kitchen articles, going to Misses Hazel and Minneola May, Christine Stewart and Willie Cobb which in turn were presented to Miss Moore.

Wilber Jones has been called home from the army on account of the serious illness of his brother Joe, who lives in Raleigh.

Miss Thelma Riggins, who is at home on vacation, is spending a few days visiting her brother, Broadus Riggins at Camp McCraw.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woods were dinner guests of Mrs. Mabel Woods on Sunday.

S.2c Hilton Yow from Camp Peary, Va., is at home on a ten-day furlough. Other boys home from the army are Clyde Mitchell and Hubert Riley. Lance Patton is home from the Navy on thirty-day furlough.

Wac. Margaret Wynn, who has been stationed at Still Water, Oklahoma, is spending a few days here with her father, R. H. Wynn.

John Lashley, from Jefferson barracks, Missouri has been spending some time here with his wife, the former Kathalene Wilson. They left Saturday to spend some time with his parents at Linville, Ala.

Six new babies were enrolled at the Baby Clinic Wednesday. Those present were: Richard Matthew Younger, John Howard Rossen, Robert Carlson Lynch, Sally Linn Apple, Nellie Lorane Beal, Judy Gail Beal, James Reece Allen, Mirium Cheryl Dennis, Harold Chrismon, Carl Vincent Flynn, William Clifton Overman and Wilkes Thomas Hughes.

Reading & Writing

by Edwin Seaver & Robin McKown

The first two white women to cross the Rocky Mountains, and thus insure themselves undying fame in the annuals of American history, were Narcissa Prentiss Whitman and Eliza Hart Spalding. They were alike only in that they both were intent on bringing the Gospel to the poor benighted Indians. Narcissa was blonde, beautiful and high-spirited. Today she might be called a glamour girl. Eliza was plain, less brilliant, but had a more steady temperament.

These are two of the pioneer women whose stories Nancy Wilson Ross tells in her book, "Westward the Women". You'll read here also of Bethenia Owens, an ex-milliner who became a doctor, and who, in spite of scandal and opprobium, performed the first male autopsy ever done by a woman; of six gentle Belgian nuns who braved the terrors of the unknown to go to Oregon and teach needlework and litanies to the "children of the forest"; of Sacajawea, the Shoshane Indian girl who acted as guide to the Lewis and Clark Expedition. There were almost no hardships which these women, and others like them, did not learn to endure.

Women were scarce in the Far West in those days. Many eager men, anxious to escape the stigma of being labelled a "bachelor", thought nothing of riding their ponies right up to the doors of respectable Portland houses, remaining on their saddles, rapping on the door with a stick, until the housewife appeared. "Good morning to you, ma'am, are you married?" they would ask. If the reply was yes they tipped their hats and rode on. If it was no they immediately proposed.

With paper rationing getting stricter, it's often first come, first serve, as far as your favorite book is concerned. Last year when the Illustrated Modern Library was launched, there were four times as many orders as books; and this year the demand is so great that the new titles have to be rationed. Some important new titles are "Leaves of Grass" illustrated by Boardman Robinson; Emerson's "Essays" with drawings by John Steuart Curry; and Franklin's "Autobiography" illustrated by Thomas Benton.

Sees Peace Use For Midwest War Plants

Prospects are good that a large proportion of the manufacturing plants which have been established for war production in the Middle West will be used for manufacture of peacetime goods, in the opinion of Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington Lines.

Simpson, Billy Wright, Palmer Swink, Carl Garner. Mr. Poe accompanied the boys.

SECOND GRADE — Twenty six boys and girls in Miss Otwell's room went to Sunday School last Sunday.

Eleven fathers came to P.-T.A. meeting last time for Miss Otwell's room.

THIRD GRADE — Dean Victory brought a 3-pound, 3 oz. turtle to school. The teacher, Miss Pinnix put it in the aquarium in the room.

Mrs. Raymond Shropshire, grandmother for Miss Rowland's third grade, gave a Halloween party for the room on Halloween day. Lollipops dressed as dolls, apples and candy were served. It was enjoyed by all.

FOURTH GRADE — The Junior Audubon club in Miss Schiffman's room met Friday morning in room three. The president, Patty Lane Davis, was in charge. After the business meeting, the program chairman, Talmadge Hobbs took charge. The program was as follows: first the roll call, with each person answering with the name of a bird, then a solo, "The Vireo" by Marlene Wilson and last of all a bird game led by Miss Schiffman. Patty Sue Apple was asked to plan the program for the next meeting.

Because of their special ability and sustained interest in bird study the following children from Ceasar Cone school have been invited to take part in field trips sponsored by the Piedmont Bird club this fall: Arnold Culbreth, Vann Haislip, Donald Smith, B. A. Byrd, Jr., Elaine Leonard, Carol Culbreth, Billy Tidwell, Margaret Haynes. Children from all the schools of Greensboro take part in these trips.
